

A DECLARATION OF COLLABORATIVE WORKING BETWEEN

Royal Devon University Healthcare NHS Foundation Trust

And

AstraZeneca UK Limited

Royal Devon University Healthcare NHS Foundation Trust and AstraZeneca UK LTD are engaged in a Collaborative Working project called 'BREast CAncer Genes and Me - Digital Patient Empowerment Project'.

This project aims to implement a digital consent pathway for breast cancer genetic testing, which will help patients to understand the potential implications, empowering them to become effective decision makers within the consent process. The information provided should support consultations and will hopefully lead to efficiency gains as well as improved patient understanding and experience.

The objectives of this project are:

- A simplified and convenient digital pathway to receive and understand genetic testing and potential implications. This should allow for faster access to genetic testing, meaning results may be back sooner to support more informed clinical management decisions.
- Avoids unnecessary additional consultations as the process will be patient led, and potentially avoiding unnecessary travel to hospital appointments.
- Improved education on genetic testing which means better shared decision making.
- Improved patient experience.
- More effective use of available consultation time.

This project will run until 31st March 2025 and both parties have contributed resources for this initiative.
